

Your Conversation Starter Kit

When it comes to end-of-life care, talking matters.

the conversation project

CREATED BY THE CONVERSATION PROJECT AND THE INSTITUTE FOR HEALTHCARE IMPROVEMENT

The Conversation Project is dedicated to helping people talk about their wishes for end-of-life care.

We know that no guide and no single conversation can cover all the decisions that you and your family may face. What a conversation can do is provide a shared understanding of what matters most to you and your loved ones. This can make it easier to make decisions when the time comes.

HOW TO USE THE STARTER KIT

This Starter Kit doesn't answer every question, but it will help you get your thoughts together, and then have the conversation with your loved ones.

You can use it whether you are getting ready to tell someone else what you want, or you want to help someone else get ready to share their wishes.

Take your time. This kit is not meant to be completed in one sitting. It's meant to be completed as you need it, throughout many conversations.

Why talking matters

Sharing your wishes for end-of-life care can bring you closer to the people you love. It's critically important. And you can do it. Consider the facts:

90% of people say that talking with their loved ones about end-of-life care is important.

27% have actually done so.

Source: The Conversation Project National Survey (2013)

60% of people say that making sure their family is not burdened by tough decisions is extremely important.

56% have not communicated their end-of life wishes.

Source: Survey of Californians by the California HealthCare Foundation (2012)

80% of people say that if seriously ill, they would want to talk to their doctor about wishes for medical treatment toward the end of their life.

7% report having had this conversation with their doctor.

Source: Survey of Californians by the California HealthCare Foundation (2012)

82% of people say it's important to put their wishes in writing.

23% have actually done it.

One conversation can make all the difference.

Step 1 Get Ready

You will have many questions as you get ready for the conversation. Here are two to help you get started:

- ? What do you need to think about or do before you feel ready to have the conversation?

- ? Do you have any particular concerns that you want to be sure to talk about? (For example, making sure finances are in order; or making sure a particular family member is taken care of.)

REMEMBER:

- You don't need to have the conversation just yet. It's okay to just start thinking about it.
- You can start out by writing a letter—to yourself, a loved one, or a friend.
- You might consider having a practice conversation with a friend.
- Having the conversation may reveal that you and your loved ones disagree. That's okay. It's important to simply know this, and to continue talking about it now—not during a medical crisis.
- Having the conversation isn't just a one-time thing. It's the first in a series of conversations over time.

Step 2 Get Set

What's most important to you as you think about how you want to live at the end of your life? What do you value most? Thinking about this will help you get ready to have the conversation.

- ? Now finish this sentence: What matters to me at the end of life is...
(For example, being able to recognize my children; being in the hospital with excellent nursing care; being able to say goodbye to the ones I love.)

Sharing your “what matters to me” statement with your loved ones could be a big help down the road. It could help them communicate to your doctor what abilities are most important to you—what’s worth pursuing treatment for, and what isn’t.

WHERE I STAND SCALES

Use the scales below to figure out how you want your end-of-life care to be. Select the number that best represents your feelings on the given scenario.

As a patient, I'd like to know...

- 1                       2                       3                       4                       5
- Only the basics about my condition and my treatment                      All the details about my condition and my treatment

As doctors treat me, I would like...

- 1                       2                       3                       4                       5
- My doctors to do what they think is best                      To have a say in every decision

If I had a terminal illness, I would prefer to...

3

Not know how quickly
it is progressing

Know my doctors best estimation for how long I have to live

Look at your answers.

What kind of role do you want to have in the decision-making process?

How long do you want to receive medical care?

3

Indefinitely, no matter how uncomfortable treatments are

Quality of life is more important to me than quantity

What are your concerns about treatment?

3

I'm worried that I won't get enough care

I'm worried that I'll get overly aggressive care

What are your preferences about where you want to be?

3

I wouldn't mind spending
my last days in a health care facility

I want to spend my last days at home

Look at your answers.

What do you notice about the kind of care you want to receive?

How involved do you want your loved ones to be?

- 1                       2                       3                       4                       5

I want my loved ones to do exactly what I've said, even if it makes them a little uncomfortable

I want my loved ones to do what brings them peace, even if it goes against what I've said

When it comes to your privacy...

- 1                       2                       3                       4                       5

When the time comes, I want to be alone

I want to be surrounded by my loved ones

When it comes to sharing information...

- 1                       2                       3                       4                       5

I don't want my loved ones to know everything about my health

I am comfortable with those close to me knowing everything about my health

Look at your answers.

What role do you want your loved ones to play? Do you think that your loved ones know what you want, or do you think they have no idea?

What do you feel are the three most important things that you want your friends, family, and/or doctors to understand about your wishes and preferences for end-of-life care?

- 2.
- 3.

| <input type="checkbox"/> On a walk                |  |

? WHAT do you want to be sure to say?

If you wrote down your three most important things at the end of Step 2, you can use those here.

How to start

Here are some ways you could break the ice:

"I need your help with something."

"Remember how someone in the family died—was it a 'good' death or a 'hard' death? How will yours be different?"

"I was thinking about what happened to , and it made me realize..."

"Even though I'm okay right now, I'm worried that , and I want to be prepared."

"I need to think about the future. Will you help me?"

"I just answered some questions about how I want the end of my life to be. I want you to see my answers. And I'm wondering what your answers would be."

What to talk about:

- When you think about the last phase of your life, what's most important to you? How would you like this phase to be?
- Do you have any particular concerns about your health? About the last phase of your life?
- What affairs do you need to get in order, or talk to your loved ones about? (Personal finances, property, relationships)
- Who do you want (or not want) to be involved in your care? Who would you like to make decisions on your behalf if you're not able to? (This person is your health care proxy.)
- Would you prefer to be actively involved in decisions about your care? Or would you rather have your doctors do what they think is best?
- Are there any disagreements or family tensions that you're concerned about?
- Are there important milestones you'd like to be there for, if possible? (The birth of your grandchild, your 80th birthday.)

- Where do you want (or not want) to receive care? (Home, nursing facility, hospital)
- Are there kinds of treatment you would want (or not want)? (Resuscitation if your heart stops, breathing machine, feeding tube)
- When would it be okay to shift from a focus on curative care to a focus on comfort care alone?

This list doesn't cover everything you may need to think about, but it's a good place to start. Talk to your doctor or nurse if you'd like them to suggest more questions to talk about.

REMEMBER:

- Be patient. Some people may need a little more time to think.
- You don't have to steer the conversation; just let it happen.
- Don't judge. A "good" death means different things to different people.
- Nothing is set in stone. You and your loved ones can always change your minds as circumstances change.
- Every attempt at the conversation is valuable.
- This is the first of many conversations—you don't have to cover everyone or everything right now.

Now, just go for it! Each conversation will empower you and your loved ones. You are getting ready to help each other live and die in a way that you choose.

Step 4 Keep Going

Congratulations! You have had “the conversation” — hopefully, the first of many. You can use the following questions to collect your thoughts about how your first talk went, and to think about what you’d like to talk about in future conversations.

? Is there something you need to clarify that you feel was misunderstood or misinterpreted?

? Who do you want to talk to next time? Are there people who should hear things at the same time (like siblings who tend to disagree)?

? How did this conversation make you feel? What do you want to remember? What do you want your loved ones to remember?

? What do you want to make sure to ask or talk about next time?

Now that you have had the conversation, you're ready to think about completing two important legal documents to make sure your wishes are clearly stated — and respected when the time comes.

Choose a Health Care Proxy

A health care proxy (also known as a durable power of attorney for health care) is a legal document in which you appoint another person (a proxy or agent) to express your wishes and make health care decisions for you if you cannot speak for yourself. Choose someone who knows your wishes well — a person you trust to speak for you if you're not able to speak for yourself.

Complete an Advance Directive

An Advance Directive, also known as a Living Will, is a legal document in which you state your wishes regarding end-of-life medical care — including the types of treatments you do and do not want — in case you are no longer able to make decisions or communicate your wishes. (Note: This is different from your Last Will and Testament, which is used to distribute assets.)

Every state has its own Advance Directive forms.
